DIRECTOR'S NOTE:

I fell in love with Beth Henley's "Crimes of the Heart" in the first ten pages of reading it. All of the characters in this play are multidimensional and sometimes you are not sure whether you love them or hate them. I have decided that this "love/hate" relationship is the essence of sisterhood and it is represented beautifully in this play. Beth Henley represents the complexity of sisterhood, love and family both literally and symbolically as she weaves the story of three sisters who have made drastically different life choices.

This play is incredibly challenging, both to me as a director and to the actors. The excellent skills of the playwright, the intense dedication and talent of the actors and the small cast have allowed us to bring to you a show that is worthy of Broadway. This cast has been through a lot together and I love every single one of them. These actors have taught me much about life, love and surviving. I hope that you enjoy the fruits of their labor. Enjoy the show!!

~ Diane

I would like to send a special thanks to Peter for his never-ending love and Kate for her invaluable support.
